

Box Integrates File Editing Apps

Written by Marco Attard
30. March 2012

Box upgrades its cloud-based file sharing service to Box OneCloud-- integrating a number of 3rd party mobile tools allowing not only file sharing, but also viewing and editing.

OneCloud will carry over 30 iOS apps, including 4 "premier apps" promising "deeper 'round-trip' integrations." Premier apps not only allow file editing, but also save files back to their original location after editing to ensure files stay within the Box environment.

The premium apps are Quickoffice (Word, Excel and PowerPoint file editor), PDF Expert (PDF annotations), Paper Port Notes (note taking tool) and Adobe EchoSign (digital signature tool).

According to a recent Forrester report, non-Microsoft devices will become more important in the near future-- with Windows device share falling to under 50% by 2016 as Android iOS grow bigger.

Go Box OneCloud