Google Challenges African App Developers

Written by Marco Attard
13. May 2011

Google launches the Android developer challenge Sub Saharan Africa-- for African developers to submit their best apps in the hopes of winning the prize.

The competition covers 3 regions (West and Central Africa, East Africa and Southern Africa), with 3 challenge categries as follows:

- entertainment/media/games
- social networking/communication
- productivity/tools/local/geo

Submissions close on 1 June 2011, and Google will announce the winners on 12 September.

What will the winners get? $25000 will go to the winners from each category.

Go Android Developer Challenge-- Sub-Saharan Africa