

Stick to It, Says Clingo

Written by Marco Attard
16. September 2011

Accessory manufacturer Allsop Europe launches its new Clingo brand with the “Stick to it” slogan. A range of products designed to universally hold mobile phones and mobile devices, Clingo showed its “sticky” products, each available in multilingual European retail packaging, at IFA.

Look for nine different versions of Clingo solutions: car phone mount, tablet stand, mobile necklet, game wheel, universal podium, mobile tether, vent mount, mobile stand, and, our favourite, the parabolic sound sphere (Clingo holds your media device inside a parabolic-shaped for amplification).

Whether in the car, office, home or on the go, Clingo solutions work because Allsop discovered a new super-sticky material. This material lets the buyer stick, peel, repeat (without leaving any residue). It's non-toxic, lead-free, and phthalates-free...which might explain why Clingo comes in green.

Clingo can be rinsed in water, wiped with a lint-free cloth, and it will still be sticky. Allsop says it has tested Clingo in extreme conditions, which is all well given the climate change weather that Europe has been experiencing lately. Frozen, heated, submerged for prolonged periods, Clingo stays as sticky as you'll find it on the Clingo stand.

Stick to It, Says Clingo

Written by Marco Attard
16. September 2011

Go Clingo